DETAILED ACTION

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 12-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 12-17 depend on claims 1-11, but claim 6-11 have been canceled.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 3, and 12-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kusuda et al. in view of Uchida and Ek et al.

Kusuda et al. teaches a light-emitting thyristor having four AlGaAs layers of alternate conductivity type and including a buffer layer on a GaAs substrate (column 22, lines 15-20). Uchida teaches to grade the buffer layer by gradually changing the lattice constant (column 2, lines 58-60). Ek et al. is similar, noting at column 1, lines 39-41, that the lattice constant can be changed either by gradually grading or by stepped layers. It would have been obvious to include such lattice matching layers as part of the Kusuda buffer layer, in order to accommodate the strain caused by differences in lattice constant between device layers and substrate, as is commonly done is the art. Claims 12-17 recite necessary or well-known circuit elements such as resistors, diodes and power supply lines, <sup>which</sup> ~~with~~ would have been obvious in view of the Kusuda teaching of a self-scanning array, in order to implement the circuitry necessary to provide the scanning.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2 and 4 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. Claim 5 is allowed. The quantum well layer or strained superlattice structure as recited is not taught or suggested in the prior art.
